"ISADEX has been the best match for our organization's needs! We have launched two versions of our site and made numerous improvements along the way. The creativity and talent both in graphic and technical aspects has permitted us function at a very high level. The backend admin site is indispensable for my daily business needs. The whole team is very responsive and over the years, it feels like we're working with family. I completely recommend ISADEX. As they say... a personal referral is the best form of flattery... We were referred to ISADEX and I have passed along their contact information to several of my other clients."

Dedicated Data Center

When it comes to site performance, controlling our own Tier 3 Data Center has its advantages.

- ∞ Complete access and control of all network and server processes
- ∞ Monitor and maintain individual site performance across the entire network
- ∞ Prevent over utilization of any one server or service which could affect other clients
- ∞ Upgrade, update, patch and protect critical systems for visitor and client security
- ∞ Test and tune overall datacenter services regularly
- ∞ Improved control over security, dependent application process and resources
- ∞ Vastly superior site-to-server ratios for faster loading, high performance sites

What is a Tier 3 rating?

N+1 redundancy - Power and cooling distribution paths to allow for routine maintenance without downtime.

72-hour outage protection - Three days of independent power that is not connected to any outside source is required.

No more than 1.6 hours of downtime per year - This is the maximum amount of downtime allowed in a year for maintenance and emergencies.

99.982% uptime - Allows only minimal downtime for unplanned maintenance and emergencies.
